A CORRELATIONAL STUDY BETWEEN STUDENTS’ PARTICIPATION IN INTERNATIONAL LANGUAGE FORUM (ILF) AND THEIR SPEAKING ACHIEVEMENT

ABSTRACT

Speaking is one of four important basic skills to be learned in learning English. Speaking is also considered as the most important skill since foreign language learners are interested in becoming real speakers of the language (Ur, 1996, 120). Furthermore, learning English just in regular classes with limited time and space is not enough. That is why English club such as ILF may aid students enhancing their speaking skill by providing opportunities for students to use and practice the language in real communication.

Previous study done by Warnanda (2009) showed that the most dominant factor that affects students to join ILF is English improvement opportunity. Referring to the study, this study was aimed to investigate the magnitude correlation between the students’ participation in ILF and their speaking achievement. This study was carried out at English Language Education Department of University of Muhammadiyah Malang. The designated research design of this study was quantitative; correlational study.

In collecting the data, the researcher utilized some techniques and instruments; questionnaire and students’ transcripts. The data were examined by using Pearson correlation. The result of this study indicated that there was a non-significant positive correlation between students’ participation in ILF and their speaking achievement (significant value = 0.293 > 0.05). It was also found that the two variables were weakly correlated (correlation coefficient = 0.248). It means that the value of students’ participation and the value of students’ speaking achievement will decrease or increase together.

In conclusion, the findings of this research reveal that the correlation between both variables was positive. The result of this study indeed showed a positive correlation with the correlation coefficient value of 0.248 and significant value of 0.293. It means that there is linear relationship between students’ participation in ILF and students’ speaking achievement. So that, the value of students’ participation as variable X and the value of students’ speaking achievement as variable Y will decrease or increase together.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Bismillahirahmanirrahim. Alhamdulillahhirabbil‘alamin. In the Name of Allah SWT, the Most Merciful, the Most Compassionate, the Lord of the worlds; and prayers and peace be upon Muhammad SAW His servant and messenger. First and foremost, I must acknowledge my limitless thanks to Allah, the Ever-Magnificent; the Ever-Thankful, for His helps and bless. I am totally sure that this work would have never become truth without His guidance.

I would like to acknowledge all those who assisted in completing the research presented in this thesis. Special gratitude is reserved for Bapak Bayu H. Wicaksono, M.Ed., Ph.D, my first advisor and also Ibu Rosalin I. Gusdian, M.A, my second advisor, for their patience and valuable time in reading, checking and correcting every part of this thesis. My gratitude also goes to all lecturers in English Language Education Department for the precious knowledge. I greatly appreciate all the members of ILF from ELED for their time and cooperation during the research process.

Further, a special feeling of gratitude is owed to my wonderful parents, Rebiati and Erie Suharyanto, S.T, whose encouragement and support inspired me to put forth my best efforts. Without their love, support, and encouraging words I would never have embarked on this journey. I also would like to express my wholehearted thanks to my family for their generous support they provided me throughout my entire. Because of their unconditional love and prayers, I have the chance to complete this thesis.
Then, I would like to take this opportunity to say warm thanks to all my beloved friends: my hilarious 404 squad (Nopi, Medina a.k.a Acil, and Sabing), Goldia squad (Galuh, Anis, and Aulia), Thantri, Bunga, The Jarwo squad (Kepin and Junot), and all fellow students of English Department B 2013 who have been so supportive along the way of doing my thesis. Last but not least, deepest thanks go to everyone whom I cannot mention one by one who took part in making this thesis real. I will always appreciate all they have done. May the Almighty Allah richly bless all of you.

Finally, I realize that this thesis is still far from being perfect. I realize that many mistakes have been made even though I have already worked hard to complete the thesis. It is hoped that this thesis will have some contribution and use.
