Interpersonal conflict phenomena between Java ethnic wife and Arabic heredity mother-in-law, in this time have begun to be concerned, not only become task for nearest relative, but have been public secret that must get serious attention. It is because, besides bringing a bad effect for husband-wife marriage continuity, it also brings bad effect for family condition harmony, and begins to lead to cultural conflict. This research, besides strives to know effective interpersonal conflict management for interpersonal problems between Java ethnic wife and Arabic heredity woman-in-law, it also expresses what thing that become conflict sources, conflict impact, and how husband role in helping to solve these.

A method used in this research is qualitative-descriptive whereas research subject is Java ethnic wife married with husband from Arabic heredity, by using snowball sampling approach, and method of collecting data through interview. From the research conducted, it is suggested that conflicts between Java ethnic wife and Arabic mother-in-law comes from cultural and value differences, expectation, and life purpose, emotional and economic factors. For instance, expressing language, dressing, food menu, daily expenditure regularity, inharmonious religious ritual, etc. this condition has impact on expectations and life objective that does not immediately present and even it is delayed for a long time. Exploration of unbalancing husband-wife couple causes interpersonal conflict with third party (mother/mother in-law). It can bring bad bio psychological condition (pressed feeling, low social contact/adaptation), for both husband-wife couple and their household continuity. Whereas, interpersonal conflict management that they (husband-wife) choose is most secured attitude, and tend to give in if conflict occurs, avoid conflict, discuss the conflict, quickly and immediately in solving existed interpersonal conflict, and remain to stand for mutual interest principle. They (L and A) evolve the same conflict management styles, choose by using turtle style, mouse deer style, and choose a way of solving effective conflict, is that immediately and specific.

Abstract

Interpersonal conflict phenomena Between Java and Arabic ethnic Heredity wife mother-in-law, in this time have Begun to be Concerned, not only changed from task for nearest relative, but have been a public secret That must get serious attention. It is Because, Besides Bringing a bad effect for husband-wife marriage continuity, it Also Brings bad condition effect for family harmony, and Begins to lead to cultural conflict. This research, strives to know its effective Besides interpersonal conflict management for interpersonal problems Between Java and Arabic ethnic wife Heredity woman-in-law, it expresses Also what That thing changed from conflict sources, conflict impact, and how husband role in Helping to solve these.

A method Used in this research is qualitative-descriptive research subjects whereas Java ethnic wife is married with husband from Arabic Heredity, by using snowball sampling approach, and methods of collecting data through interviews. From the research conducted, it is suggested that between Java ethnic conflicts, Arabic wife and mother-in-law come from the cultural and value differences, expectation, and life purpose, emotional and economic factors. For instance, expressing language, dressing, food menu, daily expenditure, regularity, inharmonious religious rituals, etc. this condition has impact on expectations and life objectives immediately. That does not present and the event it is delayed for a long time. Exploration of unbalancing husband-wife couple causes of interpersonal conflict with third party (mother / mother-in-law). It can bring bad bio-psychological condition (feeling pressed, low social contact / adaptation), for both husband-wife couple and their household continuity. Whereas, interpersonal conflict management that they (husband-wife) is most secured choose attitude, and tend to give in if conflict occurs, avoid conflict, discuss the conflict, quickly and immediately in solving interpersonal conflict existed, and remain to stand for mutual interest principle. They (M and A) evolve the same conflict management styles, choose by using turtle style, style deer mouse, and choose an effective way of solving conflict, is that immediately and specific.