Preface: The 1st International Conference on Life Science and Technology (ICoLiST)

We are honored to report the 1st ICoLiST event result articles which were held in Graha Cakrawala Hall Universitas Negeri Malang (UM), Malang City, Indonesia in 4th September 2018. This prestigious agenda was fully supported by UM and organized by Biology Department in collaboration with Universitas Pendidikan Indonesia, Universitas Muhammadiyah Malang, UIN Maulana Malik Ibrahim Malang, Universitas Ngudi Waluyo, Universitas Khoirun, Universitas Trunojoyo Madura, and Universitas Islam Malang. This conference aims to help participants to develop a more in-depth talk and understanding in life sciences research and technology for sustainable natural resources and development. Moreover, ICoLiST also provides a forum for analysis and formulation issues in Advanced Technology Development, Natural Resources Sustainability, and Human Welfare.

A hundred pre-registered authors are contributed their work in the conference, and it comes to 65 articles be accepted after a double-blinded peer review process. The conference attracted participants from different countries such as Germany, Malaysia, Taiwan, and Indonesia. A broad range of research interest was talking about, and selected posters took place to a short flash of talks. The oral presentation was delivered in a parallel session for each research area in a day.

Finally, we will express our gratitude to all the keynote speakers, participants, delegates and every staff of the Biology Department for the commitment to contributing and support this great event.
