Synopsis For The Movie

The main character is a rabbit named Judy Hopps who comes from a small town and has dreamed of becoming a police officer in a big city since childhood. Even though he was underestimated by his friends and lacked support from his family, he became the first rabbit to graduate from the police academy and even became the best graduate in his class.

Lamb: On the other hand, I could be an astronaut

Tiger: I don't have to be a lonely hunter anymore. Today, I can request a tax exemption. I will be an actuary.

Judy: And I can make the world a better place. I will be a police officer.

Gideon: Buuny Police? That was the stupidest thing I've ever heard

Judy: It seems impossible for small-minded people. I see you, Gideon Gray

After graduating from the police academy, he was assigned to downtown Zootopia. When graduation day and assignments arrived, everyone in Bunnyburrow village was very happy, including his parents, Stu Hopps (Don Lake) and Bonnie Hopps (Bonnie Hunt). However, they were both shocked when they found out that their child would be assigned to Zootopia, a place where crime, riots and so on occurred considering it was a big city.

However, Judy managed to convince her parents not to worry about her. He couldn't wait to receive his first assignment in the big city. When she arrived at Zootopia and found a place to live with annoying neighbors, she immediately rested and got ready for work tomorrow morning. A new day had arrived, Judy immediately rushed to go to the office to work. There he meets a cute receptionist named Clawhauser (Nate Torrence) who immediately befriends him.

The rest of the police didn't even care about Judy's existence. He even got the job of being a parking attendant by Chief Bogo (Idris Elba). Even though she initially didn't accept it because she thought she would get a big assignment, Judy still carried out her duties well.

Zootopia is a metropolitan city inhabited by various types of animals, ranging from small animals such as mice to large animals such as giraffes and elephants. On his first day joining the Zootopia Police Department (ZPD), he was belittled by his superior, Chief Bogo, and was only used as a parking supervisor.

On his first day of work, he meets a fox duo named Nick Wilde and Finnick. They look like innocent good animals but it turns out they are both big-time fraudsters by selling jumbo ice cream that is melted and sold more expensively and selling ice cream sticks by saying that they are building wood to other animals.

Judy then asked Nick to admit his actions because it was against the law. However, he lost track of it when Judy was asked for help by a shop owner. It turned out that Duke Weaselton stole a bag of crocus bulbs from the shop. Duke Weaselton is a thief known as Midnicampum holicithias. When he was about to escape into the city's rodent area, Judy managed to catch him. Not only that, Judy also managed to help Fru Fru, a small rodent. After successfully catching the thief, he immediately reported it to his superior, Chairman BogoJudy, really hoping to get appreciation, but Bobo actually scolded him. According to Bogo, Judy couldn't work well because she neglected her main responsibilities.

This coincided with the loss of 14 other animals. Before she could speak, Judy agreed to investigate the case with the help of the mayor's assistant, Dawn Bellwether (Jenny Slate). Bogo has no choice but to agree,

> Chief Bogo: You’re fired!
> Judy: What? Why?
> Chief Bogo: Insubordination! Now I'm going to open this door and you're going to tell Otter that you're a former meter maid with delusions of grandeur who would never work on this case!
> Bellwether: I just heard Officer Hopps is taking the case.
> Chief Bogo: Assistant Mayor Bellwether
> Bellwether: The Mammal Inclusion Initiative is starting to pay off. Mayor Lionheart is just gonna be so jazzed!

but secretly orders Judy to resign if she fails after forty-eight hours if she cannot find Mr. Otterton. One of the clues points to Nick. This forces Judy and Nick to immediately work together to solve the clues as to where Mr. Otterton is.

Even though Nick initially refused, he finally wanted to help Judy track down Mr. Otterton. After dozens of hours of searching, the results led to a limousine belonging to Mr. Big (Maurice LaMarche) is known as a sadist.Feeling that Judy and Nick have violated their privacy, they will be destroyed, but Fru Fru, who was helped by Judy, saves the rabbit and fox. It turns out that Fru is the son of Mr. Big.

This makes Mr. Big becomes kind again and will help find Mr. Otterton who turns out to be the culprit of all the bad events. Driver Mr. Big, Manchas (Jesse Corti) is attacked by Mr. Otterton suddenly when he takes him to meet Mr. Otterton. Big.While visiting Manchas' residence, Manchas suddenly turned violent and attacked Judy and Nick after he talked about the Night Howlers.

Losing track of Manchas, he enlists Dawn's help to gain access to Zootopia's traffic cameras. They find Manchas taken by wolves, Judy suspects the Night Howlers are the wolves. Judy and Nick also visited the wolves' headquarters, which turned out to be a hospital turned laboratory where the 14 missing animals were in separate cages. Judy immediately reported this incident and got the Mayor of Zootopia, Leodore Lionheart (J.K. Simmons) arrested because he was there when Judy and Nick were doing research.

News quickly spread and made Judy the center of attention because she managed to uncover the case of the disappearance of 14 animals. However, because he was careless, Judy said that this happened because predatory animals had a hunting instinct. This created chaos.Realizing his mistake, he immediately resigned and lost Nick who was considered a predatory and dangerous animal. When he came home, he accidentally got inspiration about what really happened thanks to his parents planting flowers. Judy immediately looked for Nick and worked together again to find the perpetrator of the conspiracy, Realizing his mistake, he immediately resigned and lost Nick who was considered a predatory and dangerous animal. When he came home, he accidentally got inspiration about what really happened thanks to his parents planting flowers. Judy immediately looked for Nick and worked together again to find the perpetrator of the conspiracy, who was the deputy mayor's assistant, Dawn. They then find Weaselton, who explains that he has been collecting night howlers, including the one Judy found the day she caught him, with money paid by a ram named Doug Ramses, who has a laboratory hidden in a subway tunnel.

The pair discover a laboratory and discover Doug is making night howler serum, which he has exposed to predators via paintball-like pellets fired by an air-powered sniper rifle. Judy and Nick hijack the lab (which is on a working train) and race to the ZPD with evidence but are pursued by Doug's henchmen Woolter and Jesse, whom they barely defeat. The train is destroyed in the process, but Nick manages to salvage a box containing Doug's sniper rifle and serum pellets.

Shortly after the ZPD at the National History Museum, the pair ran into Bellwether, who insisted that he take the evidence. Realizing he is the mastermind of the conspiracy, Judy and Nick try to escape but are knocked into a hole by his henchmen. Bellwether fires serum pellets from the evidence case at Nick and arranges a call for help to the ZPD.

Nick appears to go wild and corners Judy, but it turns out the pair acted to trick Bellwether into publicly admitting to her prey supremacy scheme to take over Zootopia and get rid of all the predators, and they replaced the dart gun ammunition with blueberries.

> Nick: Yeah, you know, you're milking it. Plus, I think we get it. I think we understand. We're getting there, thanks, Yakety-yak! You capped it all off beautifully.
> Leader: What?
> Nick: Yes...oh, you're looking for the serum? Yes, it's here.
> Judy: Is your gun there? It's a blueberry.

from the Hopps farm. With Bellwether's monologue recorded on Judy's carrot pen just as Bellwether makes a short-lived threat to trap them like she did with Lionheart, Chief Bogo and the ZPD arrive and arrest her and her henchmen after hearing everything.

After being briefed and interviewed about the matter, Lionheart denies any knowledge of Bellwether's plans but admits to illegally imprisoning the ferocious predator, claiming it was done for "the right reasons"]Later, Judy is returned to the ZPD. An antidote is found for the effects of the night disturbance, and all the infected predators, including Mr. Otterton and Mr. Manchas, are cured. Several months later (about a year after Judy started her job at the ZPD), Nick joins the ZPD as its first Fox officer and Judy's new partner.
